

United Way of Delaware: Building Stronger Communities Together

When life becomes overwhelming, knowing where to turn can make all the difference.

For one Delaware family, it began with a call for help after an unexpected job loss. They needed assistance paying bills, finding childcare, and accessing food while searching for new employment. Through United Way of Delaware and its network of community partners, they found the support they needed to stabilize their household and begin moving forward.

That story is repeated every day across our state.

United Way of Delaware brings together nonprofits, businesses, government agencies, and community leaders to tackle Delaware's most pressing challenges. From helping children build strong reading skills and empowering families through financial coaching, to connecting neighbors with essential resources through Delaware 211, our work is rooted in collaboration and focused on creating lasting change.

Every success story begins with people who care enough to invest in their community. Corporate partners like DuPont help make that possible by supporting programs that strengthen families, expand opportunity, and build a more equitable future for all Delawareans.

Together, we are creating communities where every person has the opportunity to thrive.
